

On 25th August, 2008, we came to the end of sixteen glorious days which we will cherish forever. I am happy that the Chinese people's dream of hosting an Olympic was achieved without a hitch. Through these games, I believe that the world learnt more about China and China learnt more about the world.

New sports star always amazed us not only because of their ability but also their Olympic spirit which will be long remembered by us. Especially for those disabled participants who participated in the Paralympics games

The Paralympics Games also inspire me a lot. Most of the athletes showed the unifying power of sports. Also, I reckon that they all talented athletes as they showed the spirit of perseverance in the competition. I think that everyone can make it if they keep trying and never give up. I believe everyone have their own dream; some may want to achieve good result in competition. But for people with disability, they simply want to make good use of their disability. Therefore, I believe that if there is a will, then there is a way.

In conclusion, I learnt a lot from the Beijing 2008 Olympic Games. And I think everyone should be treated equally just like the spirit of Olympics. The Beijing Games was on the whole truly exceptional. Hopefully, the Olympic spirit will continue to make the world become more peaceful and with less conflict.
